Infosys CEO Nilekani Keynotes ITechLaw Asian Conference

WAKEFIELD, Mass., USA and BANGALORE, India – Feb. 2, 2006 – The International Technology Law Association's (ITechLaw) Second International Asian Conference kicks off today in Bangalore with a keynote address by Nandan M. Nilekani, CEO, president and Managing Director of Infosys Technologies Limited, Bangalore, India. Infosys (NASDAQ: INFY) provides consulting and information technology services to Global 2000 companies.

The theme of the conference is "Growing Technology Companies in a Flat World: Issues for Information Technology, Intellectual Property, Outsourcing and Corporate Management." The two-day event, Feb. 1-2, showcases recent developments in information technology, law and international legal issues, and features presentations from leading legal practitioners, regulators and industry experts.

Conference sessions will cover a wide range of topics, including intellectual property law, funding of technology companies, technology mergers and acquisitions, regulatory issues in outsourcing, legal issues pertaining to Internet infrastructure and regulation, open source, legal outsourcing and other issues associated with doing business in the technology world. The second day's keynote address, "Law at a Lightning Pace: Coping with Law in Transition", will be delivered by Raymond T. Nimmer, Leonard Childs Professor of Law, University of Houston Law Center. More information about the conference is available at www.cla-india.com.

Opening keynoter Nilekani is one of the founders of Infosys and has served on the company's board of directors since its inception in 1981. He was appointed Chief Executive Officer of Infosys in March 2002. Mr. Nilekani has been involved in many public and industry initiatives during his distinguished career, and he has received a number of awards, including the prestigious Joseph Schumpeter 2005 prize for innovative service in the fields of economy, economic sciences and politics.
