Statement
Hotel Adlon Kempinski Berlin
on Media Reports of the Risk of Terrorist Attacks

The management of Hotel Adlon Kempinski is constantly in close contact with security officials and competent ministries in Berlin. According to their information, there is no evidence whatsoever of an acute risk to the security of the hotel or its surroundings. Germany's Interior Ministry declared in its statement dated October 3, 2010, that there are no concrete indications of imminent attacks in Germany.

Nevertheless, Hotel Adlon Kempinski has intensified its security measures within and around the property and instructed all staff to remain highly vigilant.
